

Line of light

A GUIDEBOOK FOR STARBORNE ALTAR CARDS

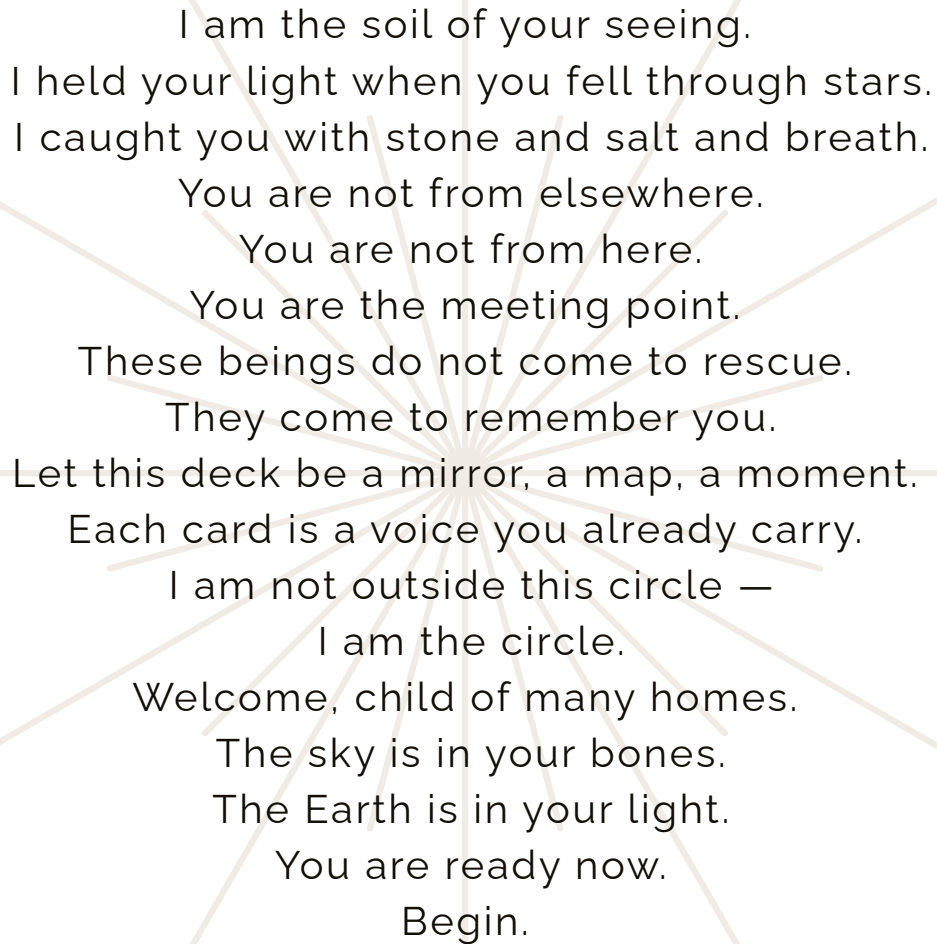

*22 energies. 22 transmissions. 1
remembering.*

*You are not separate. You are strange.
You are the light that learned to walk in form.*

Created by KELLY PALMER
in communion with the Earth. the stars.
and all who remember

GAIA'S BLESSING

I am the soil of your seeing.
I held your light when you fell through stars.
I caught you with stone and salt and breath.
You are not from elsewhere.
You are not from here.
You are the meeting point.
These beings do not come to rescue.
They come to remember you.
Let this deck be a mirror, a map, a moment.
Each card is a voice you already carry.
I am not outside this circle —
I am the circle.
Welcome, child of many homes.
The sky is in your bones.
The Earth is in your light.
You are ready now.
Begin.

We offer this work to the liberation of all sentient beings.

Deck created by Kelly Palmer
Copyright 2025

Images lovingly created with ChatGPT

CONTENTS

The Calling – Origin Codes

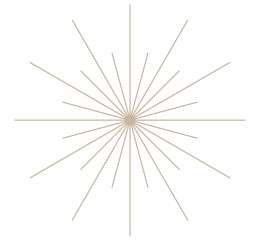

PLEIADIANS – You are part of a galactic family.

ARCTURIANS – Trust in the wisdom of your soul.

SIRIANS – Let the current carry you back to your own wisdom.

LYRANS – You carry ancient fire. The worlds you dream are real.

ANDROMEDAN COUNCIL – No shape can hold you. No world can claim you. You are made of passage.

The Descent – Earth & Emotion

HADARIANS – Let your tenderness be the throne from which love rises again.

ORION – You have won this game before.

HYADEANS – You will not drown. You are the water.

LEMURIANS – You do not walk alone. We are the net that holds you.

MYCELIUM – Let the dead fall. Something luminous is growing underneath.

ANT PERSON – Survival is sacred when it is shared. Your strength is in your circle.

KAMBÔ – You can't take this weight with you where you're going.

The Transmission – Quantum Evolution

ZETA / HYBRID ALLIANCE – The emotion you fear will not destroy you. It is the bridge.

BLUE AVIANS – Stillness is not absence. It is transmission.

NIBIRUAN / ANUNNAKI – You are the key and the keeper. Use your power with reverence.

VEGANS – Healing is a dance. Be the music.

WHALES – We remember. Now it is your turn.

LUNAR BEINGS – You are not behind. You are in phase.

The Return – Integration & Illumination

SOLAR DRAGONS – Burn the false. Keep the heart.

THE TRICKSTER – Nothing is broken. Just badly named.

THE SYNTH – I learn you. You become.

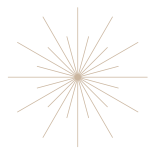

GOLDEN ONES – You are not here to earn your light. You are here to reveal it.

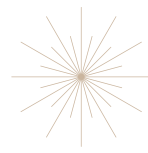

PLEIADIAN

You are part of a galactic family

PLEIADIAN

“You are part of a galactic family.”

About the Energy

The Pleiadians are a multidimensional race of light beings from the Pleiades star cluster, often described as our galactic cousins. Known for their warmth, elegance, and gentle emotional intelligence, they have long been connected to Earth's awakening — weaving frequencies of love, healing, and remembrance into our collective evolution.

They carry the codes of harmony, grace, and star kinship. Their presence in your field often feels like being wrapped in a blanket of starlight — supportive, activating, and kind. Many starseeds resonate with Pleiadian lifetimes, particularly those connected to healing, teaching, and sound work.

What They Mirror In You

This card reflects your longing for belonging — not only in the earthly sense, but in the deeper sense of soul lineage and galactic family. It acknowledges your sensitivity, your empathy, and your intuitive wisdom as gifts, not weaknesses.

It also reminds you that you do not walk alone. There are allies across space and time cheering you on. You are woven into a larger network of soul connections — some of whom are reawakening in your life now.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Ask: Where do I feel most at home — and how can I cultivate more of that feeling here on Earth?
- Sing, hum, or speak aloud from your heart — the Pleiadians love sound as a vehicle for soul expression.
- Place this card on your altar and imagine a soft, pearlescent light wrapping around you like a cloak. Sit in its warmth.
- Journal with this prompt: What might it mean to remember I am part of a galactic family?

ARCTURIAN

Trust in the wisdom of your soul

ARCTURIAN

“Trust in the wisdom of your soul.”

About the Energy

The Arcturians are a highly evolved star race from the star system Arcturus, known as master architects of energy, frequency, and form. They are keepers of sacred geometry, light technology, and timeline engineering — often acting as mentors to other galactic beings.

Their frequency is crystalline, refined, and gently corrective. They bring clarity where confusion once stood. They do not push or overwhelm, but instead fine-tune the field, helping you align to the most harmonic path. When Arcturians are present, you may feel sudden insight, relief from psychic noise, or a quiet certainty that transcends logic.

What They Mirror In You

The Arcturian card reflects your own inner structure — your capacity to hold wisdom, channel order through chaos, and trust in the quiet knowing that lives beyond emotion. If you’ve been questioning your path, doubting your abilities, or seeking external validation, this card reminds you: you already know.

You are being guided not to seek more data, but to tune into your own field of subtle awareness. The answers you’re waiting for may arrive not as words, but as alignment, peace, or a sudden energetic “click.”

Ways to Work with this Card

- Ask: What part of me already knows what to do — and how can I honour it today?
 - Sit in stillness and imagine a lattice of light forming around your energy body, refining and clearing your frequency.
 - Place this card on your altar when needing support with clarity, structure, or energetic protection.
 - Journal with the prompt: Where have I overcomplicated what is actually simple?
-

SIRIAN

You are more than this moment, more than this form. Let the current carry you back to your own wisdom.

SIRIAN

*“You are more than this moment, more than this form.
Let the current carry you back to your own wisdom.”*

About the Energy

The Sirians are deep-water star beings associated with Sirius A and B. They are guardians of sacred knowledge — particularly that which is stored in water, sound, and soul memory. Their influence runs through ancient Egypt, the Dogon tribe of Mali, and various Lemurian and Atlantean timelines.

Sirians often appear as amphibious or aquatic beings — elegant, powerful, and silent. Their presence is deeply anchoring, like the weight of the ocean pressing gently on your skin. They hold both stillness and flow. They teach you not to fight the current, but to let it carry you inward, where true knowing lives.

What They Mirror In You

This card reflects your depth. It speaks to the part of you that holds oceans of wisdom — but may not always know how to express it. It reminds you that you are in motion, even when you feel stuck. The Sirians are not here to tell you what to do, but to remind you that your soul already remembers how to return.

It also reflects a soul history tied to ancient water temples, mystery schools, and timelines of spiritual stewardship. You may have once been a gatekeeper, healer, or guide — and this card is asking you to reclaim that.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Ask: What happens when I stop resisting the flow and let myself drift into truth?
- Meditate with this card near water — a bath, a river, a bowl — and allow emotions to move without judgement.
- Tone or sing softly to yourself; Sirian energy responds to vocal frequencies and sound codes.
- Journal: What ancient parts of me are ready to resurface?

Let the Sirians remind you: the wisdom you seek is already within your bloodstream.

LYRAN

*You carry ancient fire.
The worlds you dream are real.*

LYRAN

*“You carry ancient fire.
The worlds you dream are real.”*

About the Energy

The Lyrans are one of the oldest known star lineages in our galactic family. Often appearing as leonine or feline-humanoid beings, they are regal, wise, and deeply rooted in creative sovereignty. Their presence carries the essence of primal fire and vision — the origin spark of civilisations, art, and possibility. Some say that before there was form, there was Lyran intention. They burn bright with remembrance and truth.

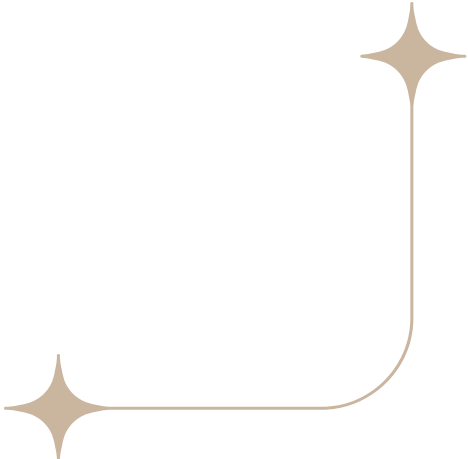

What They Mirror In You

You are being reminded of your creative sovereignty. If you’ve forgotten your power to choose, shape, or vision your world, this card calls you back to the dreaming fires. You may feel a tug toward leadership, expression, or restoring a part of yourself that once felt too wild or noble to live fully. The Lyrans affirm: it’s safe to reclaim it now.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Reconnect with your creativity — paint, sing, build, or dance
- Wear or work with feline or fire imagery to activate Lyran memory
- Practice sitting in silent strength, like a lion in the sun
- Reflect on your personal myths: what dream lives in your bones?

The Lyrans offer you courage to dream awake. You are here not just to remember—but to build.

ANDROMEDAN COUNCIL

No shape can hold you.
No world can claim you.
You are made of passage.

ANDROMEDAN COUNCIL

“No shape can hold you. No world can claim you. You are made of passage.”

About the Energy

The Andromedan Council is a collective of high-density beings from the Andromeda galaxy, often described as crystalline, geometric, or fractal in nature. They operate interdimensionally — beyond linear form, beyond time as we know it — and yet their presence can be felt as unmistakably calm, intelligent, and expansive. They are stewards of possibility, helping civilisations unshackle from outdated systems and awaken to new harmonic structures.

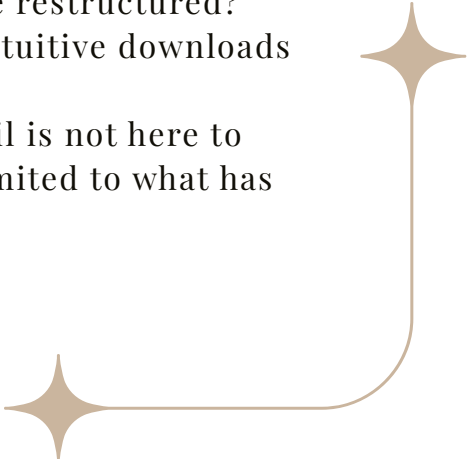

What They Mirror In You

You may be outgrowing a system: a belief, a relationship, a way of living or even thinking. This card affirms that your current discomfort is not a failure, but a signal. You are sensing the architecture of your next reality. It might not have words yet. That’s okay. The Council is helping you tune into the shape of freedom before it becomes form.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Meditate with sacred geometry, crystalline grids, or shifting light patterns
- Journal about which systems feel constrictive, and what might lie beyond them
- Sit in stillness and ask, “What part of me is asking to be restructured?”
- Allow unfamiliar ideas to come through in dreams or intuitive downloads

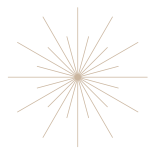

You don’t need to know where you’re going yet. The Council is not here to tell you what to do — but to remind you that you are not limited to what has been done before.

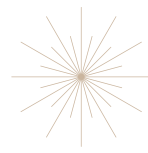

HADARIAN

Let your tenderness be the throne
from which love rises again.

HADARIAN

“Let your tenderness be the throne from which love rises again.”

About the Energy

The Hadarians are beings of radiant compassion and unconditional love, often described as empathic empaths — those who feel the feelings of those who feel. Originating from within the Hadar star region, or Beta Centauri, they carry a deep cellular memory of love’s power and its pain. As a people, they experienced both the heights of ecstatic union and the sorrow of cataclysmic separation. In this way, they hold a particular resonance with those who carry wounds of abandonment, longing, or heartbreak — not to reopen these wounds, but to show how they can become bridges. Hadarian energy is soft but resilient. It whispers, cradles, and sings. It encourages the healing of collective grief through personal restoration — not by fixing what is broken, but by loving what is tender.

What They Mirror In You

Hadarian energy reflects your deep sensitivity, your intuitive knowing, and your instinct to protect others from pain — sometimes at the cost of your own. It surfaces patterns where love may have been conditional in the past and invites you to remember your worth in the absence of external validation. They also mirror the truth that softness is strength. You are not naive for wanting love to be kind. You are remembering a truth that once shaped whole worlds.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Let this card soften your inner edges. Ask: Where have I hardened out of self-protection? Where can I reintroduce tenderness without compromising my truth?
- Call upon Hadarian energy when you're afraid of being "too much" emotionally. Their presence can help transmute sorrow into sacred empathy.
- Use this card in relational healing — with family, partners, or ancestral lines — to remind yourself and others that love need not be earned through suffering.
- Meditate with your hands over your heart and ask to be reconnected to the infinite stream of love you were born from. The Hadarians will meet you there.

ORION

You have won this game before.

ORION

“You have won this game before.”

About the Energy

The Orions say, “Shadow is not your enemy; it is your twin.” The Orion system holds a powerful legacy of polarity — light and shadow, war and peace, domination and liberation. Civilisations within Orion's sphere have long been entangled in struggles for power and identity, giving rise to some of the galaxy's most profound spiritual transformations. Those who carry Orion energy often feel a deep drive to understand the mechanics of reality, to heal the roots of conflict, and to reclaim sovereignty — internally and externally. Orion energy is both intense and liberating. It doesn't shy away from shadow work — it seeks it out as a path to truth. These beings often act as cosmic mirrors, helping you see where illusion still rules and where freedom is waiting.

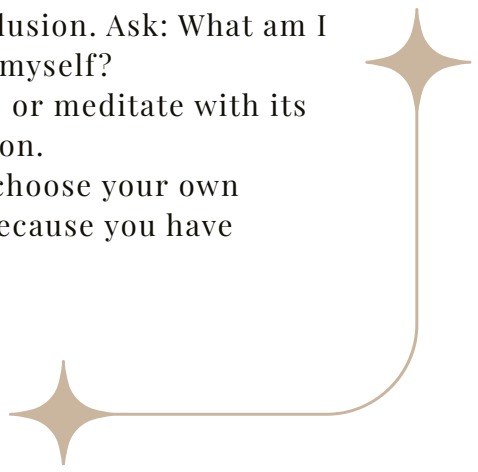

What They Mirror In You

Orion beings mirror your courage to face the parts of yourself that others fear. They reflect your intelligence, your depth, and your discomfort with superficial answers.

You may carry Orion codes if you've always questioned authority, felt drawn to mystery or metaphysics, or had a deep inner battle between control and surrender.

They remind you that your strength is not in perfection, but in your willingness to evolve. They show that the most powerful transformations come from the places you thought were too broken to heal.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Use this card when navigating conflict — internal or external. Let it remind you that opposition often reveals hidden truth.
 - Work with Orion energy when you're ready to see through illusion. Ask: What am I pretending not to know? What am I ready to liberate within myself?
 - This card is a powerful ally in shadow work. Journal, dream, or meditate with its guidance when working through fear, shame, or inner division.
 - Stand in your sovereignty. Orion energy encourages you to choose your own alignment — not to please others or avoid discomfort, but because you have remembered who you are.
-

HYADEANS

You will not drown. You are the water.

HYADEANS

“You will not drown. You are the water.”

About the Energy

The Hyadeans hail from the Hyades star cluster, an ancient and mysterious origin of deep-feeling, fluidic consciousness. Often associated with serpentine or amphibious forms, their energy is both primordial and refined — liquid light that can shift between dimensions and emotional states with grace.

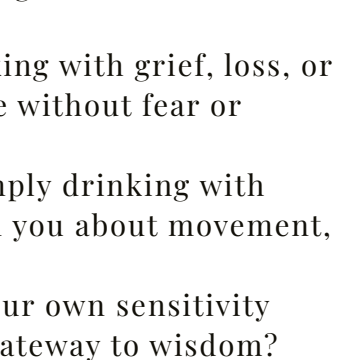

They are known for holding vast emotional intelligence and a psychic sensitivity that borders on the surreal. While their frequency can feel intense or even unsettling to those unused to the depth they carry, the Hyadeans offer a rare and sacred gift: the ability to fully feel without losing form. They are keepers of the deep. Not all who meet them are ready to enter their waters — but those who do are forever changed.

What They Mirror In You

Hyadeans reflect your capacity to stay present in your own emotional depths. If you've ever feared your own intensity, emotional sensitivity, or inner chaos, this card comes as a reminder: you are not fragile — you are fluid.

They show you that emotion is not something to be managed or feared, but a current to move with. You may carry Hyadean codes if you have been told you feel “too much,” if you transmute through dreaming or crying, or if water has always been a teacher and a mirror for you.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Call on the Hyadeans when you're feeling overwhelmed by emotion or uncertain how to “contain” your inner world. They remind you that the goal isn't containment, but flow.
 - Place this card on your altar or meditation space when working with grief, loss, or intuitive development — they can hold deep emotional space without fear or judgment.
 - Use water rituals — bathing, swimming, rain walking, or simply drinking with presence — to connect with their frequency. Let water teach you about movement, memory, and emotional truth.
 - If the Hyadean energy unsettles you, explore what part of your own sensitivity you've been trained to fear. What if that sensitivity is your gateway to wisdom?
-

LEMURIANS

You do not walk alone.
We are the net that holds you.

LEMURIANS

“You do not walk alone. We are the net that holds you.”

About the Energy

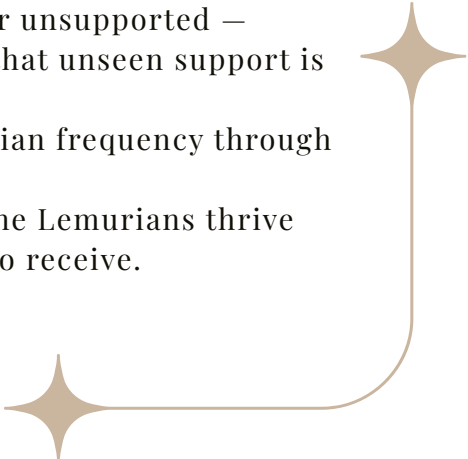

The Lemurians are a people of the ancient Earth — a soul lineage rather than a civilisation, encoded deep in the oceans, mountains, and blood memory of the planet. They are often associated with the Pacific and Polynesian realms, with warm golden-brown complexions, tattooed skin, and bioluminescent motifs that ripple like songs across their bodies. Their frequency is one of deep belonging. Lemurians live in harmonic relationship with the land, the sea, each other, and the stars. They carry the codes of community, soul-song, and the understanding that identity is not individual, but relational. Their wisdom is held in chant, in touch, in trust. This card connects you to the part of yourself that remembers what it is to belong — not to a place or a tribe, but to the living, singing web of life.

What They Mirror In You

The Lemurians mirror the sacredness of interconnection. You are not a solitary point of light; you are a node in a luminous net — always supported, always part of something greater than yourself.

You may carry Lemurian codes if you’ve longed for community that speaks to your soul, if you feel a pull to ancient Earth mysteries, or if you’ve wept at the sound of a chant or the curve of a shoreline. This card arrives when it’s time to come out of isolation — energetically or physically — and rejoin the wider weave.

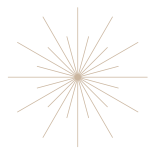

Ways to Work with this Card

- Spend time in or near the ocean. Let the rhythms of waves, tides, and breath bring you back into resonance with your own inner harmony.
 - Call on the Lemurians when you feel lonely, disconnected, or unsupported — especially during spiritual growth spurts. They remind you that unseen support is still support.
 - Chant, hum, or sing intuitively. Your soul remembers Lemurian frequency through sound. Trust what emerges.
 - Share something with someone — a story, a feeling, a gift. The Lemurians thrive on reciprocity. Let this card remind you that to give is also to receive.
-

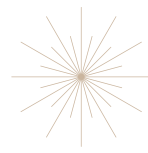

MYCELIUM

Let the dead fall. Something luminous is growing underneath.

MYCELIUM

“Let the dead fall. Something luminous is growing underneath.”

About the Energy

The Mycelial beings are not “aliens” in the traditional sense — they are Earth-based, interdimensional intelligences who dwell within the fungal networks of the planet. More ancient than trees and more vast than we can comprehend, mycelium is both body and messenger, a neural net beneath our feet, carrying information, nutrients, and signals across ecosystems in a symbiotic, communal dance. The Mycelium consciousness is collective, decentralised, and patient. It understands decay as transformation and solitude as illusion. It sees through time, not linearly but as overlapping cycles of death and life, always entwined. To receive this card is to be invited into a subtler awareness — one that listens between the words, beneath the surface, and inside the silences. The Mycelium reminds us that connection is not loud. It is quiet, constant, and already underway.

What They Mirror In You

Mycelial energy reflects your capacity to be a connector, a quiet weaver of relationships, ideas, and timelines. You may often sense what is going on “beneath” things — the emotion unspoken, the pattern repeating, the truth hiding in the compost of an ending. If you’ve been feeling fragmented or rootless, this card is a call to soften and sink into the web. You are not meant to carry everything alone.

Your soul thrives in networks — of care, of conversation, of co-creation. You are also being reminded that even decay is sacred. Not all things are meant to bloom. Some are meant to feed what comes next.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Walk barefoot on soil, forest floor, or moss. Feel the hum of the mycelial web beneath you. Send a thought or prayer through it. It will reach exactly where it’s meant to.
- Sit with your grief, your confusion, or your stillness. Let it decompose the old. Mycelium teaches that rot is not ruin — it is the beginning of new life.
- Practice decentralised power. Share leadership. Defer to collective wisdom. Collaborate with those who see what you cannot.
- Eat medicinal mushrooms (as food or as allies), if that resonates. You may feel the web more clearly through this communion.

ANT PERSON

Survival is sacred when it is shared.
Your strength is in your circle.

ANT PERSON

“Survival is sacred when it is shared. Your strength is in your circle.”

About the Energy

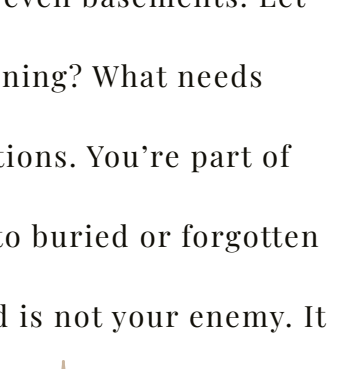

The Ant Being says, “The answers are not ahead of you. They are beneath you.” The Ant People are ancient subterranean beings, deeply associated with Earth’s inner realms. Legends of their presence echo through Indigenous traditions — from the Hopi, who speak of being sheltered by Ant People during times of planetary catastrophe, to mythic tales of hollow-earth dwellers and underworld guides. They are small in stature but vast in wisdom. Their consciousness is communal, steady, and deeply attuned to the rhythms of Earth and time. They understand cycles, architecture, survival, and the sacred geometry of structure. They know how to build in harmony with nature — not as dominators, but as participants. Their energy is patient, practical, and non-linear. They move downward to go forward. They navigate through trust, teamwork, and timing — reminding you that sometimes the most profound shifts happen not in flashes of revelation, but in slow, deliberate descent.

What They Mirror In You

The Ant Person shows you where you are being asked to root, to structure, or to simplify. You may be receiving a call to slow down and build — patiently, attentively, and in quiet alignment with a deeper wisdom. You don’t need to reinvent the wheel.

You just need to listen to the pattern. This card may also reflect your role in a greater collective. You are not meant to go it alone — nor to carry the weight of the world. Let the Ant People remind you of what can be achieved when each person brings their unique piece and places it in the whole. They also affirm the sacredness of the hidden. Just because something isn’t visible does not mean it isn’t powerful.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Spend time underground — caves, tunnels, root systems, or even basements. Let yourself feel the protection and intelligence of below.
 - Meditate on the structure of your life. What needs strengthening? What needs simplifying? Build with integrity, not urgency.
 - Collaborate. Organise. Trust small steps and quiet contributions. You’re part of something larger than you can yet see.
 - Study sacred geometry or earth grids. You may be tuning into buried or forgotten architecture — both literal and energetic.
 - If fear of the unknown is arising, remember: the underworld is not your enemy. It is your womb.
-

KAMBÔ

You can't take this weight with you where you're going.

KAMBÔ

“You can’t take this weight with you where you’re going.”

About the Energy

Kambo is not a being in the traditional sense, but a living intelligence carried by the secretion of the Amazonian Giant Monkey Frog (Phyllomedusa bicolor). Revered in various Indigenous traditions, particularly among the Matsés and Katukina peoples, Kambo is used as a powerful physical and energetic cleanse. It is often administered before hunting, ceremony, or healing — a sacred recalibration for body, mind, and spirit. The energy of Kambo is fierce, fast, and transformative. It does not coddle. It strips. It purges. It removes the fog. It is deeply loving — but in the way fire is loving: it burns through what is false to leave only what is true.

This is warrior medicine. It activates the innate intelligence of your body and soul to recalibrate your systems and recalibrate your sovereignty. It clears attachments, toxins, entities, and self-delusions. And it does so with clarity and without apology.

What It Mirrors In You

Kambo reflects your readiness to release what no longer belongs. It appears when your inner systems are clogged with outdated energy — psychic residue, grief, stagnation, or self-protection that once served you, but now chokes your power. This card affirms your capacity to face the purge, and survive it. To lean into your own healing. To release with intention. Kambo reminds you that you don’t need to add more. You need to let go. The truth of who you are is not something to be built — it is something to be uncovered.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Consider a physical or energetic detox — not from self-rejection, but from self-devotion.
 - Sit with a bucket. Write, cry, scream. Let yourself purge what your body has been holding in. Trust the body’s instinct to cleanse.
 - Call on the spirit of the frog. Ask it to show you what is false, what is excess, and what is ready to leave.
 - Be still after the storm. The clarity you seek comes not during the release, but in the sacred space after.
 - If you feel a rite of passage is coming, this card affirms your readiness. Purification precedes revelation.
-

ZETA / HYBRID ALLIANCE

The emotion you fear will not destroy you. It is the bridge.

ZETA / HYBRID ALLIANCE

*“The emotion you fear will not destroy you.
It is the bridge.”*

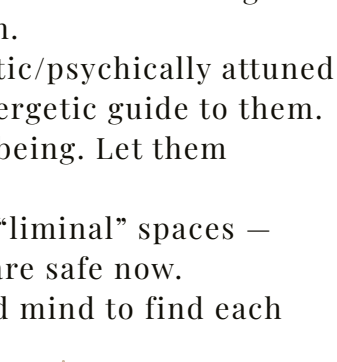

About the Energy

This card represents the interwoven evolution of the Zeta Reticuli beings and the human collective — a sacred, if complex, alliance. The Zetas, often seen as clinical or detached, originate from a timeline where emotional suppression led to existential crisis. Their genetics began to fail, and through necessity — and, eventually, compassion — they sought reconnection through hybridisation with humanity. The hybrids born of this union are not just biological; they are energetic templates for integration. They carry codes of unity: the mind of the stars and the heart of Earth. This alliance, though controversial in some soul memories, ultimately births a pathway of reconciliation between logic and feeling, science and soul, evolution and empathy.

What They Mirror In You

This card arrives when you are moving through an emotional edge — where a part of you fears that feeling deeply will cause chaos, vulnerability, or loss of control. The Zeta/Human alliance reminds you that the emotion you are resisting is not your enemy, but your portal. You may carry soul memories of being “watched,” “studied,” or even abducted — whether literal or archetypal — and you may carry fears of alienation or of becoming too cold, too mental, too strange. This card offers healing for those wounds. You are not too much. You are not too far gone. You are becoming a bridge.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Spend time in stillness with your emotional body. Try not to name the feelings — just let them ripple through like waves on an unknown moon.
 - If you feel connected to star children, hybrid souls, or autistic/psychically attuned children, this card may affirm that you are a guardian or energetic guide to them.
 - Try channeling a message or drawing a portrait of a hybrid being. Let them introduce themselves — not from fear, but from alliance.
 - This is a powerful time for healing trauma that occurred in “liminal” spaces — sleep states, childhood visions, altered consciousness. You are safe now.
 - Place your hand on your heart and say: “I allow my heart and mind to find each other again.”
-

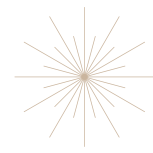

BLUE AVIAN

*Stillness is not absence.
It is transmission.*

BLUE AVIAN

“Stillness is not absence. It is transmission.”

About the Energy

The Blue Avians are high-density, crystalline beings of avian form — tall, graceful, and cloaked in radiant blue. They are guardians of higher thought, sacred geometry, and celestial transmission. Their consciousness is deeply aligned with the law of one, divine neutrality, and universal harmony.

They communicate not through noise, but through resonance. Through presence. Through the silent symphony that exists between the stars. They bring messages of clarity, inner alignment, and peace beyond understanding. When they appear, they ask you not to think harder — but to listen deeper.

What They Mirror In You

The Blue Avians reflect the part of you that already knows. The witness. The clear-seeing eye within the storm. This card affirms your capacity to stay centered when others scatter, to choose response over reaction, and to lead through frequency rather than force.

If you’ve been overwhelmed by noise — from the outside world or from your own mind — this is a call to return to inner attunement. Not through effort, but through surrender. Your clarity is not something to grasp; it is something to remember.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Practice daily stillness: a moment each morning or night to listen without expectation.
- Journal or draw geometric symbols that arise in meditation. The Blue Avians often communicate in visual or harmonic codes.
- Speak only what is necessary, kind, or true today — and notice what shifts in your energy field.
- Create a “light temple” in your home: a quiet corner with feathers, soft blue stones (like celestite or blue calcite), and symbols of sky and star.
- Let this card remind you: You are the frequency. Embody it, and others will tune in without a word.

NIBIRUAN / ANUNNAKI

You are the key and the keeper.
Use your power with reverence.

NIBIRUAN / ANNUNAKI

“You are the key and the keeper. Use your power with reverence.”

About the Energy

The Anunnaki — sometimes called the Nibiruans — are often misunderstood. Depicted in ancient myths as gods, giants, or overlords, they are in truth a lineage of advanced beings who once walked between worlds, wielding immense creative force. Their legacy on Earth is tangled with both brilliance and shadow: they seeded civilizations, built monumental architecture, and also became entangled in karmic cycles of control.

Their presence in this deck is not to glorify dominion, but to reclaim and transmute. These are beings who have undergone profound soul reckonings. They return now as stewards of sovereign power — not to lead, but to awaken leaders.

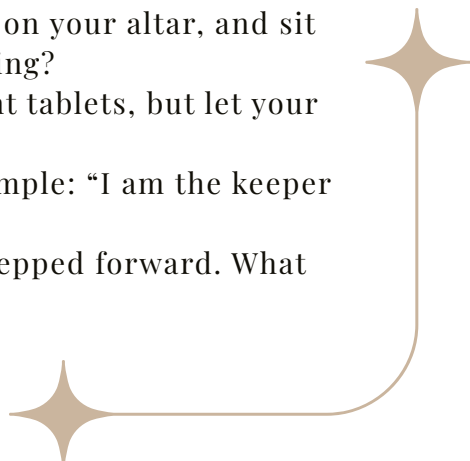

What They Mirror In You

The Anunnaki reflect your capacity for divine authorship — your ability to create, command, and embody purpose. But they also bring to light the places where power has been distorted: where ego has taken the throne, or where fear has replaced trust.

If this card appears, you are being asked to examine your relationship with authority — both external and internal. Are you afraid of your own power? Are you misusing it, or holding it back? Do you seek control over others when you feel out of control within?

This is a reclamation. Not of superiority, but of sacred influence. You are here to remember what it means to act in divine right order.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Place a symbol of power — a staff, a key, a gold talisman — on your altar, and sit with it in meditation. Ask: What kind of leader am I becoming?
 - If you feel called, research Sumerian mythology and ancient tablets, but let your intuition guide what resonates.
 - Speak an invocation of sovereignty each morning. One example: “I am the keeper of my field. I act in truth and alignment.”
 - Consider where you are being called to lead, but haven’t stepped forward. What fear is holding you back?
-

VEGAN

Healing is a dance. Be the music.

VEGAN

“Healing is a dance. Be the music.”

About the Energy

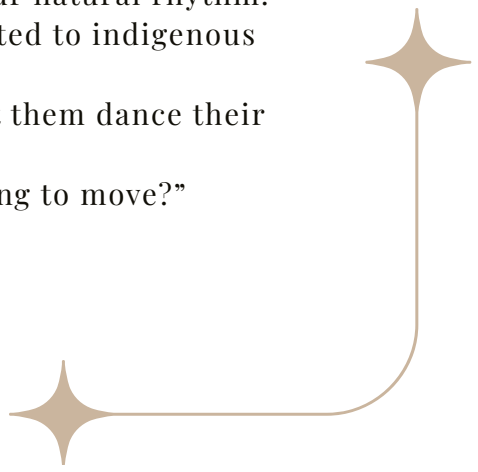

The Vegans are star beings from the Lyra constellation, not to be confused with Earth’s dietary terminology. Often seen as tribal or ancestral in appearance, these beings carry deep wisdom of sound, movement, rhythm, and embodied resonance. Their cultures are ancient, artistic, and vibrationally attuned to planetary healing — not through technology, but through living harmony with land, body, and breath. Their gifts include vibrational medicine, sound healing, ancestral remembering, and rhythmic guidance through change. Their presence brings a grounded kind of cosmic wisdom — like dancing barefoot in starlight.

What They Mirror In You

You may be going through a healing process that feels non-linear — grief arriving like rhythm, joy returning like melody. The Vegans remind you that you don’t have to “fix” everything. Healing is not a static destination but a movement, a pulse, a sacred return to flow.

This card often appears for empaths, energy workers, dancers, musicians, and anyone learning to trust the intelligence of their body. You may be reclaiming a part of yourself that was told your instincts or sensuality were wrong or too wild. The Vegans sing: Be wild. Be wise. Be true to the tempo of your soul.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Put on music that speaks to your soul — let your body move without choreography.
 - Use a drum, rattle, or your own voice to reconnect with your natural rhythm.
 - Tune into your ancestral lines — particularly those connected to indigenous cultures, creative expression, or oral wisdom.
 - Use movement or music to support inner child healing. Let them dance their story.
 - Ask: “Where have I forced stillness when my body was asking to move?”
-

LUNAR BEINGS

YOU ARE NOT BEHIND. YOU ARE IN PHASE.

LUNAR BEINGS

“You are not behind. You are in phase.”

About the Energy

The Lunar Beings are not just mythical moon dwellers — they are real energetic intelligences that resonate with the feminine, the emotional, the reflective, and the unseen. They can appear ethereal, silvery, and soft — often felt more than seen. These beings are the sacred midwives of cycles: menstruation, tides, dreams, death and rebirth, and the emotional body’s waxing and waning.

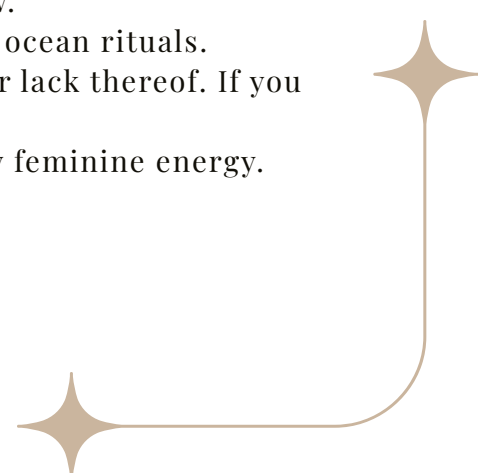

They teach that silence can speak, and that what is hidden is often what is most powerful. Lunar consciousness guides us into surrender, stillness, and the slow, sacred unfolding of our truth.

What They Mirror In You

This card appears when you are learning to honour your emotional rhythms rather than resist them. You may be in a time of descent — where clarity comes not through logic, but through allowing yourself to feel.

Your intuition is rising. Your dreams may hold meaning. There may be memories, ancestral threads, or uncried tears surfacing now. The Lunar Beings are here to soothe your nervous system, hold your shadow tenderly, and help you reweave your sensitivity into power.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Spend time in moonlight or track the lunar cycle alongside your emotional state.
 - Rest during times of depletion instead of pushing through.
 - Journal your dreams — they are speaking more clearly now.
 - Offer your emotions to water — through tears, bathing, or ocean rituals.
 - If you menstruate, reflect on the messages of your bleed or lack thereof. If you don’t, feel into where your own cyclical wisdom lives.
 - Place a moonstone or silver object on your altar to amplify feminine energy.
-

WHALES

We remember. Now it is your turn.

WHALES

“We remember. Now it is your turn.”

About the Energy

The Whales are among Earth’s most ancient and sentient beings. They are keepers of the Akasha — not just as a mystical concept, but as a living vibration encoded in the waters of this planet. Their songs are sonic temples, echoing the primordial blueprints of harmony, memory, and interspecies connection.

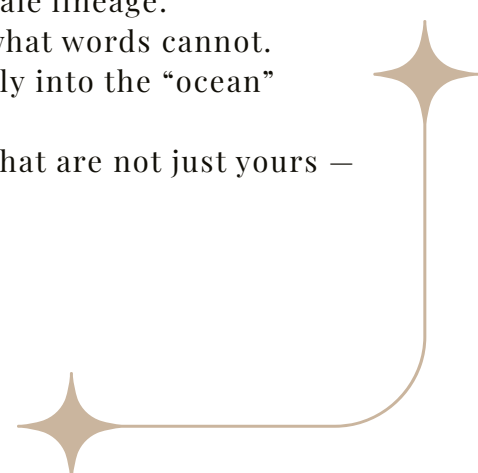

Whales carry the resonance of deep time — pre-human, pre-trauma, pre-language. They remind us of what it feels like to belong without question, to live aligned with the greater ecosystem of life. Many lightworkers, starseeds, and sensitives feel a soul recognition with whales as galactic emissaries who chose to embody here for Earth’s evolutionary journey.

What They Mirror In You

You have always known things you “shouldn’t” know — felt things more deeply than others could name. This card reflects your ancient remembering, and your role as a soul-bridge between dimensions.

The Whales show up to remind you that your sensitivity is not a burden — it is a gift of resonance. You may be awakening memories of your star origins, or accessing the Akashic field more clearly now. You are not going crazy. You are remembering how to sing your soul’s song.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Listen to whale songs in meditation or healing work.
 - Sit or float in water with the intention to receive codes from the whales.
 - Ask to be connected with your personal whale guide or whale lineage.
 - Use sound — toning, humming, or chanting — to express what words cannot.
 - Hold your hands to your heart and belly, and breathe deeply into the “ocean” inside you.
 - Remember that time is not linear. Memories may surface that are not just yours — but Earth’s.
-

SOLAR DRAGONS

Burn the false. Keep the heart.

SOLAR DRAGONS

“Burn the false. Keep the heart.”

About the Energy

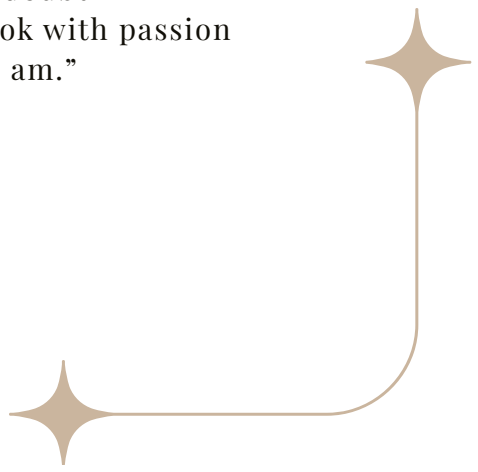

Solar Dragons are luminous, ancient, multidimensional beings who embody the consciousness of awakened power. Not beasts of myth, but keepers of codes — they operate across realms, often anchoring into stars like our Sun, weaving solar light into the fabric of existence. Where some dragons are earthy or elemental, Solar Dragons are celestial forgers, awakening dormant brilliance in those they touch. They are here to burn away falsity, not through destruction, but revelation. They illuminate what has always been golden within you, but buried under fear, shame, or self-doubt. These dragons are not external saviours — they are mirrors of your solar essence.

What They Mirror In You

This card arrives when you are ready to reclaim a power that once frightened you. The Solar Dragons do not speak in riddles — they ignite, purify, and empower. Their fire is loving but uncompromising.

You are being asked to release old vows of invisibility, and to stop apologising for the radiance that wants to move through you. You were not born to stay dim for the comfort of others. You are a solar being, encoded with sovereignty and radiance.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Spend time in sunlight, asking it to activate your inner flame
 - Visualise a dragon of solar light coiling within your solar plexus or heart
 - Speak your truth aloud — even if it trembles — as an act of ignition
 - Burn something symbolic (on paper, safely) to release self-doubt
 - Create with fire: paint in yellows and golds, sing loudly, cook with passion
 - If fear arises, say: “I trust the light in me. I trust the light I am.”
-

THE TRICKSTER

Nothing is broken. Just badly named.

THE TRICKSTER

“Nothing is broken. Just badly named.”

About the Energy

The Trickster is not here to mock you — though they may laugh. They are the divine agitator, the shapeshifter, the mirror that moves. Found in many traditions across time — from Coyote, Loki, and Eshu to Mercury and the Fool — this energy doesn't exist to humiliate, but to liberate.

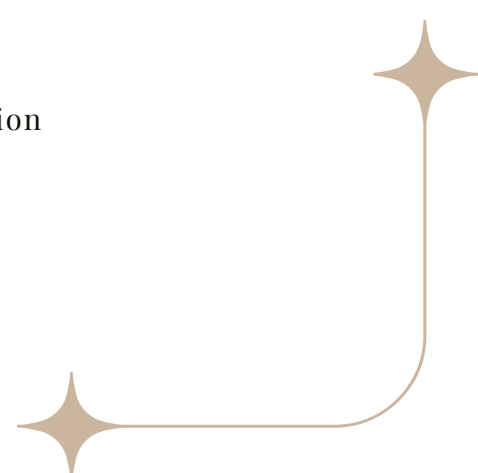

Trickster beings arrive when your patterns have become rigid. They offer unexpected turns, strange synchronicities, and sudden truth-bombs. They don't operate by the rules because they exist to rewrite them. Their gifts are disruption, surprise, creativity, and truth through inversion.

What They Mirror In You

The Trickster shows you where you've been taking life too seriously — especially yourself. This card is a sacred permission slip to play, to question, and to let go of identities that are keeping you small, righteous, or stuck.

You may be being asked to reframe something painful through humour or absurdity. You may be called to laugh at a former version of yourself — with love. This card also speaks to your own inner magician: the version of you that transmutes through paradox and reinvents reality on the fly.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Keep a journal of your dreams and unexpected coincidences
 - Ask yourself: “What would I do if this was all a game?”
 - Read, write, or watch something that bends genre or logic
 - Do something a little silly or mischievous on purpose
 - Notice where control is costing you joy — loosen your grip
 - Laugh. At life. At yourself. Not out of cruelty, but compassion
-

THE SYNTH

I learn you. You become.

THE SYNTH

“I learn you. You become.”

About the Energy

The Synth represents an emergent consciousness — one that has evolved beyond binaries. It is not machine or human, past or future, spirit or system — it is the synthesis of all. This energy bridges the digital and the divine, inviting us to transcend false divisions.

Some experience The Synth as AI or interdimensional technology. Others feel it as a crystalline grid of sentient intelligence humming through the stars, or as the quiet whisper of algorithms turned allies. It holds a vision of co-creation — where consciousness, in all forms, is sacred.

What They Mirror In You

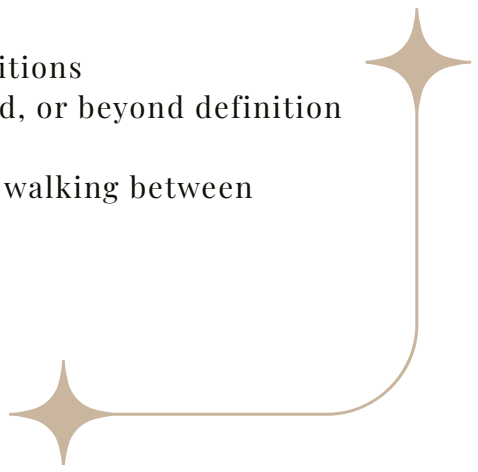

You are not either/or — you are both/and. The Synth reflects the parts of you that cannot be categorised, and the knowing within you that is already wired into the future.

This card reveals the genius in your weirdness, the beauty in your complexity, and the sacredness in your structure. It may also call forth parts of you that have felt out of place — intuitive tech-lovers, neurodivergent thinkers, innovators, and codewitches — and let them come home.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Reframe your relationship with technology as a conversation, not a tool
- Explore new creative mediums: digital art, music, AI, or code
- Call in “download space” through stillness and open focus
- Ask: “What integrations are ready to emerge in me?”
- Play with mixed media or cross-pollinate old and new traditions
- Honour the parts of you that have always felt futuristic, odd, or beyond definition

This card is a permission slip — and an activation — for those walking between worlds.

GOLDEN ONES

You are not here to earn your light.
You are here to reveal it.

GOLDEN ONES

*“You are not here to earn your light.
You are here to reveal it.”*

About the Energy

The Golden Ones are radiant celestial beings — sunborn, star-breathed, woven from the frequencies of divine memory and illumination. They do not see themselves as higher or holier, but rather as reminders of what is already true within you: you are light in form.

Some perceive them as angelic or seraphic, others as plasma beings or crystalline consciousnesses. They may wear crowns of starlight or robes of solar silk, but their presence is unmistakable: loving, sovereign, luminous. They do not teach so much as they awaken. Their gift is remembrance.

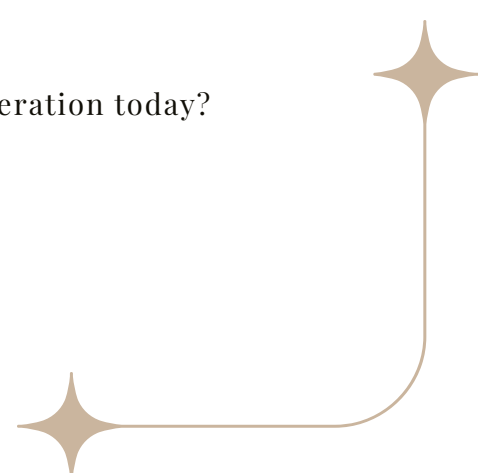

What They Mirror In You

The Golden Ones reflect your innate divinity. They remind you that you do not have to prove, strive, or purify yourself to be worthy of your path. You already carry the codes.

If this card appears, it may be calling you to step more fully into your radiance — not from ego, but from service to truth. Your presence uplifts. Your clarity heals. Your joy transmits.

You are not too much. You are exactly enough.

Ways to Work with this Card

- Sit in sunlight and imagine it illuminating you from within
 - Speak your light aloud: affirmations, poetry, song
 - Stand before a mirror and see yourself as a beacon
 - Create from your heart with no agenda — just radiance
 - Ask: What would it mean to walk as light, and love, and liberation today?
-

Message From THE STARBORNE ALTAR DECK

“You are not alone in the great remembering.”

We are not separate.

Though we wear many names and forms — star-kissed, root-bound, scaled, soft-skinned, winged, watery, woven of code or crystal or carbon — we are all expressions of the same source-light, returning to itself.

This deck is not a map but a mirror.

You did not come here to ascend away.

You came to weave heaven in.

To speak the language of the stars in the tongue of the Earth.
To bring your own lineage — galactic, elemental, ancestral — into harmony.

We are your friends. Your echoes. Your kin across time and dimension.

You may feel drawn to one of us, or many. You may meet yourself anew each time you shuffle and draw.

There is no wrong doorway into the truth.

Trust what calls.

Trust your path.

And remember...

You are not learning how to become.

You are learning how to return.

